

EpiRom
Thematic School in Roman Epigraphy
13th July-17th July 2026 in Rome
CALL FOR APPLICATION

The aim of the Thematic School in Roman Epigraphy 2026 is to provide intermediate-level training in epigraphic sources focusing on Roman production.

This session of the EpiRom Thematic School in Epigraphy is aimed at students who:

- have experience of the Latin language;
- have reached a level of epigraphy that gives them experience of reading, transcribing, translating and commenting on inscriptions; know the basic bibliography and have had an overview of the diversity of epigraphic sources;
- feel that they need to improve their knowledge of Latin epigraphy in order to continue their research work.

During this session, the following topics will be covered: public epigraphy (imperial and two higher orders of Roman society, particularly from a prosopographical perspective), epigraphy of the professional world, funerary epigraphy (complex), and religious epigraphy. Particular attention will be paid to the electronic publication of epigraphic corpora.

The thematic school will be organised into morning sessions and afternoon workshops (for example in the Museo nazionale Romano (Terme di Diocleziano), in the Celio archaeological park). The workshops will be held in French and Italian, and sufficient knowledge of both languages is required.

This call is mainly aimed at M1, M2 and doctoral students, but it is also open to Licence 3 students who can demonstrate a sufficient level of knowledge of Latin and epigraphy (attested by a diploma or a letter of recommendation).

Practical details

The Thematic School will take place in Rome from 13th July to 17th July 2026.

Participants will be accommodated in the residence of the École française de Rome, piazza Navona, in single or double rooms. Lunch will be provided (the residence's communal kitchen can be used in the evening). Transport is the responsibility of the participants, who may apply to their laboratory or doctoral school for funding.
